INTRODUCTION

These instructions are compiled to provide essential practice for students who already have a basic knowledge of English and specializing in Management of the Hotel, Resort and Tourist Service, the Hospitality Industry & Tourism.

These tasks are to change the attitudes of both teachers and students to classroom activities. The teacher who is worried that students will be missing something important will find included in the activities which develop intensive and extensive reading skills, writing in a variety of styles, and oral tasks involving varying degrees of subtlety. The teacher who brings these tasks into the study is not depriving the students of language practice, but is, instead, providing a richer context for such practice.

When teachers use texts for reading they are often too concerned with what was written at the expense of how. Reading in any language is an affective as well as a cognitive process. The teacher's role is not that of corrector or judge, but rather that of enabler. The teacher assists with language, errors, but should not replace the student's perceptions with his or her own.

Each unit contains the following:

- reading
- lexical exercises
- a series of assignments that mirror real-life activities.

TEXT 1. Read and translate the text.

Spain.

Spain attracts over 50 million foreign visitors every year, making it the world’s most popular tourist destination – not least with the British. Of course, anywhere that enjoys such massive appeal is sure to suffer slightly from an image problem. Yet Spain’s appeal lies not just in its convenience, its desire to please, its sunshine and its beaches. If you choose your hotel and resort carefully, and most importantly of all, if you devote a little time to the real ‘Spain’, you will enjoy a stay in a country that bears little resemblance to your own, not only with regards to location and climate, but also with regards to people, customs, food and culture. On our search for the ‘Elegant Resorts of Spain’, we could hardly ignore its beautiful cities or its high-profile glamour resorts – and nor would we want to – yet we did do a little exploring too and discovered some gorgeous hideaways that offer an insight into the uniqueness and fascination that is the real Spain.

EXERCISES:

TEXT 2. Read and translate the text.

Spain. When to Go.

If you want to tan and swim in the sea, but would prefer to avoid the worst of the heat and the crowds, plan a visit in late spring/early summer or late summer/early autumn. The peak summer months of July and August are guaranteed hot weather and guaranteed people. During the winter months, southern Spain is a great escape from the inclement English climate, but cannot be relied upon for anything other than mildly pleasant temperatures – probably the ideal golfing weather, but not generally conducive to sunbathing or sea swimming. This area is an ideal choice for winter weekend breaks but do try and avoid the cities in July and August, as the heat can be oppressive.

EXERCISES:

TEXT 3. Read and translate the text.

Spain. Observations and Suggestions.

Don't forget about siesta time – still an important part of Spanish life, although less in evidence in the main towns and cities. If you do forget and visit a village between the hours of 1-4 pm, you will either feel that everybody knows something you don't or that you've hit upon a ghost town! It's far better to schedule visits mid-morning or early-evening, whilst the best way of avoiding the problem altogether is to go with the flow and have your own!

Days do seem to take on a slightly different structure in Spain and you will almost certainly find yourself doing everything just that little bit later than you do at home. Leisurely breakfasts often aren't over until late morning, whilst sociable dinners can begin at ten and last until midnight. Somehow, in this climate, it seems exactly the right way to go about things.

Hiring a car is usually a good idea in Spain. Indeed, there can be few more enjoyable holidays than a driving trip around Andalusia, exploring the glitzy resorts of Marbella or Puerto Banus before heading inland to the more cultural delights of Granada or Seville. The main roads are surprisingly good, with the 'autopistas' generally a lot less congested than their English counterparts – however, try and avoid driving anywhere on Sunday evenings as city weekenders contribute to massive traffic jams. Ignore this advice completely if you are on a city-based holiday. Public transport or taxis are best here, as the road systems, parking and driving conditions are guaranteed to have you tearing your hair out.

You may wish to combine your visit to mainland Spain with a sidetrip to the islands of Ibiza or Majorca. As Elegant Resorts only use scheduled flights, we can happily arrange an individual two or three-centre holiday for you – of any duration. Do not hesitate to call and ask us for a quotation for any combination of hotels or resorts.

TEXT 4. Read and translate the text.

Spain. Golf & Tennis.

Spain is world famous for golf, with 100-plus courses on the mainland and throughout its islands. The greatest concentration, though, is on the Costa del Sol with Las Brisas and Valderrama probably the most famous. The most complete golfing resort in Spain is the La Manga Club on the Costa Calida, boasting three championship courses suitable for players of all abilities.

Tennis is another favourite sport in Spain and if you are a particular aficionado, you should direct your attention to either the Hyatt La Manga Club (eighteen courts), or the Manolo Santana Club (ten courts) on the Costa del Sol. Their first-rate floodlit courts will enable you to play in the cooler evenings, whilst their excellent professional tuition will ensure you return to the UK with a better backhand than when you left!

TEXT 5. Read and translate the text.

Spain. Beach Resorts. Costa del Sol & Costa Calida.

For glamour and glitz – particularly during the peak summer months – look no further than Marbella on southern Spain’s Costa del Sol. Whilst humble fishing boats do still sail its waters and its Old town remains a warren of narrow streets and tiny squares there’s little doubt it’s the beaches, the luxury hotels, the restaurants and the nightclubs that visitors flock to experience. And what an experience!

You will see open-top Rolls Royces, cruising its avenues, you will see famous yachts in its harbours, and beautiful tanned people doing everything they can to remain that way. By day, miles of beaches inviting you to relax, by night casinos and nightclubs inviting you to play. A whole different world!

As for the Costa Calida, in south-eastern Spain, your main reason for visiting it will undoubtedly be the Hyatt La Manga Club and its unrivalled sporting facilities. Whilst you can play golf and tennis here to your heart’s content, an added bonus is its proximity to a plethora of interesting towns and villages – including the port of Cartagena, the ancient palm forest of Elche, the Moorish castle of Lorca and the cave-city of Guadix.

EXERCISES:

Spain. Islands. Ibiza and Majorca.

Nowadays there can be very few Brits – those with a passport anyway – who have not already holidayed in the Balearic Islands. And those who have stubbornly refused tend to have done so because the high-rise, crowded resorts of Majorca’s Palma or Ibiza’s San Antonio are uppermost in their minds. Yet both of these islands have another story to tell, of tiny coves and dramatic cliffs, hotel hideaways and candlelit restaurants, cobble-stoned streets and honey-coloured villages.

Ibiza does still revel in its image as a trendy haven for the ‘beautiful people’ and for those who want it there are plenty of venues in which to party all night. In addition to its fashionable nightclubs and body-conscious beaches, the island also merits attention for its whitewashed villages, its picturesque harbours and its lovely old capital, Ibiza Town.

Majorca itself needs little introduction, with nearly five million tourists crowding onto the island yearly. For those seeking sanctuary from the crosses of modern-day tourism including the southern Bay of Palma and, to a lesser extent, the northern Bay of Alcudia, will still leave you with plenty of unspoiled island to enjoy. Seasoned travellers may question the name of ‘The Fortunate Islands’ bestowed upon the Canaries and might see it as pushing poetic licence too far. And yet, for those who know where to look, these islands are blessed year-round by a sparkling Gulf Stream-warmed climate. In our featured choice of Tenerife, old towns like Puerto de la Cruz and La Laguna, the little Costa del Adeje in the south, and the superb national park landscapes around Mount Teide, will certainly find favour with the more discerning visitor keen to enjoy a gentler, more authentic Canaries experience.

TEXT 7. Read and translate the text.

Spain. Big cities. Madrid, Barcelona & Seville.

Spain's beautiful cities can sometimes get a little overlooked, and don't seem to receive the same kind of attention as those in Italy or France. There's no doubt they suffered badly beneath Franco's stifling regime, but since his death in 1975, many have undergone an explosive cultural and intellectual awakening - La Movida - and we envisage a time, not too far off, when a romantic weekend in Madrid, Barcelona or Seville will have the same heady appeal as a few days in Paris or Venice.

EXERCISES:

1. Insert the missed words in the sentences:

TEXT 8. Read and translate the text.

Spain. Country Retreats. Near Seville and Granada.

Instead of only featuring hotels right in the centre of its famous cities, we decided to do a little exploring. And we weren’t disappointed. This is your opportunity to discover the ‘real’ Spain – the Spain of sunflower fields and olive groves, flamenco dances and bull fights, rambling haciendas and distant white villages. Stay at La Bobadilla and the Moorish delights of Granada – including the 14th century palace of Alhambra – are less than an hour’s drive away. These hotels are ideal for romantic weekends, as components of a driving holiday through Andalusia or even as breakaway days from the beach resorts of Marbella or the Algarve – La Bobadilla is about 90 minutes drive from Marbella, whilst it would take about two and a half hours to drive from the Algarve in Portugal across the border to Seville.

TEXT 9. Read and translate the text.

Spain. Marbella Club.

Situated on a long stretch of sandy beach, the Marbella Club is an attractive mélange of fragranced gardens, deluxe accommodation and stylish restaurants. With just 129 rooms, suites and bungalows it is slightly more intimate than the neighbouring Puente Romano and enjoys a definite club-like ambience that many guests will appreciate.

Those seeking an active environment can spend their summer days down at the Beach Club, with its lively swimming pool and appealing buffet restaurant, whilst those who prefer a little more peace and quiet can relax in the gardens around the upper pool (heated during the winter) enjoying the occasional coffee or perhaps a refreshing local cocktail. Loungers and towels are provided free of charge around the pool.

All of the accommodation, a welcoming blend of stylish furniture and vibrant fabrics, is surprisingly spacious, with each room boasting televisions, air-conditioning, minibars, private balconies or terraces and ensuite bathrooms with robes and hairdryers.

During evenings at The Marbella Club the spotlight moves away from the beach area and back onto the central facilities. Excellent tennis facilities can be found at the nearby Manolo Santana tennis centre. The delightful Terrace Restaurant offers alfresco candlelit dinners during the summer months between June and September, with meals moving into the indoor Winter Grill Restaurant between September and May. Of course, all the attractions of Marbella and Puerto Banus are less than ten minutes drive away.

The Marbella Club thanks Prince Alfonso von Hohenlohe for its conception in 1954 and is a well-deserved member of The Leading Hotels of the World.

Spain. Puente Romano.

Marbella.

Situated on a wide sweep of sandy beach next door to the Marbella Club, the Puente Romano was originally conceived as a village-style apartment complex. It was converted into a hotel in 1979 and since then has attracted many of the world's leading aristocracy and politicians, along with a healthy sprinkling of entertainment celebrities. The award-winning gardens are definitely its outstanding feature. Over three hundred types of flora, from ivy-covered palms and pines to jacarandas and bougainvillaeas, combine with trickling streams, splashing fountains and lily ponds to create a lush, almost tropical environment. The accommodation is spacious (minimum size 52 square metres) and well-appointed. Guests can choose between twin/double rooms, junior suites or one and two bedroom suites, all with air-conditioning, televisions, minibars, marble bathrooms and private terraces overlooking the gardens or the pool. Recreational facilities are provided by three swimming pools, one of them heated, and adjacent ‘Manolo Santana Tennis Club’, the club offering tennis, aerobics, massages, sauna and a gym and during the summer months watersports from the beach including windsurfing, waterskiing and jetskiing. You can also take advantage of reduced green fees for a number of three golf courses, including Los Naranjos, La Quinta and Gauda amongst others. The resort’s day and night time hub, however often include the alfresco Plaza Romana, and amphitheatre-like terraces of three enticing bars and restaurants, Café El Puente, Bar La Casa and La Plaza Restaurant. Guests staying at the hotel enjoy signing facilities at the Marbella Club restaurants. Evenings here tend to be lively affairs, beginning with available cocktails accompanied by piano music and ending with dancing in the discotheque in ten minute taxi ride to the glitzy nightlife of Puerto Banus Marbella. A member of The Leading Hotels of the World.

Spain. Las Dunas Beach Hotel & Spa. Near Estepona.

The latest addition to Marbella's collection of luxury hotels has only welcomed its first guests in February 1996. Set directly on a wide expanse of beach overlooking Gibraltar and North Africa, this hacienda-style hotel is just ten minutes from Marbella, five minutes from Estepona and seven minutes from Puerto Banus by car. In addition to its luxury accommodation and fine dining, it offers the additional benefits of a pampering and clinical spa. An aura of comfortable elegance permeates the entire resort. Its architectural design betrays both Andalucian and Moorish influences, the memorable sea views from its public areas complemented by magnificent hand-painted murals. Just 75 air-conditioned rooms and suites await, each one individually decorated in an appealing Mediterranean style, yet all featuring satellite televisions, minibars, 24-hour room service, marble bathrooms and terraces with views of the sea or the sub-tropical gardens. The two-bedroom Grand Suite ranks amongst the finest accommodation available in the region. Guests can choose between the international cuisine of the alfresco Café La Terrazza or the elegant Restaurante Lido, both accompanied with memorable pool and sea views. The menu caters for those seeking a more healthy regime whilst live entertainment with a Latin flavour is presented each evening in the Piano Bar Felix. Of course, all the glamorous nightlife of the Costa del Sol is within easy driving distance. Recreational facilities include a twenty-metre heated outdoor swimming pool, a three-tiered mahogany sundeck and a wide stretch of fully-serviced beach, from which jetskiing, waterskiing and catamaran sailing is available. Those who prefer golf may take advantage of reduced green fees and priority tee times in the renowned La Quinta Golf and Country Club just ten minutes drive away, with a further twenty six courses also readily accessed. The gymnasium, sauna and jacuzzi are popular features of the first-class Regena Sol Clinic and Spa, with few guests leaving Las Dunas without availing themselves of its relaxing facial, body and hydrotherapy treatments. Despite being more than two years old, the high standards at Las Dunas Beach have already been recognized by The Leading Hotels of the World.

Spain. Byblos Andaluz.
Near Mijas.

If your idea of holiday heaven is to sit on the balcony of your luxury hotel room and see a beautifully manicured golf course spread out before you, then look no further than the Byblos Andaluz. With an isolated location about five miles from picturesque Mijas and twenty miles from glamorous Marbella, this is one of the finest golf resorts on the Costa del Sol, with the additional advantage of Europe's most advanced Thalassotherapy centre right on site. A beautiful Andalusian and Moorish-style architecture, with much use made of marble and tiles, the hotel's public courtyards, arches and fountains convey a strong impression of privileged luxury. There are five different types of accommodation available, ranging from attractive superior doubles to sumptuous 150 square metre suites. Appointed in a variety of styles – Arabian, Andalusian, Roman or Rustic – all have air-conditioning, televisions, minibars and private terraces with views of the Thalassotherapy centre, distant Mijas or the golf course. Indeed, guests will probably spend a part of their day on one of the two 18-hole Robert Trent Jones courses which hug the resort – tee-off times can be booked when you make your reservation. As an alternative, the Roman-style Thalassotherapy Centre is a relaxing and peaceful environment in which to recharge the batteries – a heated swimming pool, sauna, gymnasium and brand new Beauty Centre complement the seawater treatments aimed at leaving you refreshed and relaxed. Additional facilities include five tennis courts and two outside swimming pools, whilst excursions to Mijas, Marbella, Puerto Banus, Malaga and Granada can also be readily arranged. When your attention turns to dining, you can enjoy casual lunches on the poolside terrace of La Fuente, Andalusian-style dinners at El Andaluz, or international gastronomic cuisine in the refined ambience of Le Nailhac. The Byblos Andaluz opened in 1986 when it was immediately acclaimed as one of Spain's top resort hotels and is now a member of The Leading Hotels of the World.

Hotel La Bobadilla.

Loja, Granada

Such is the peaceful ambience at La Bobadilla, set amidst 350 hectares in the rolling hills of Andalusia, that at certain times of the year goldfinches can be spied nesting in the trees of its interior courtyard. In fact, during a stay at this unique hotel one cannot help but be aware of the serene beauty of nature – only the grounds immediately surrounding it, have been extensively manicured, with the remainder left totally wild and undisturbed, except perhaps by local animals and birds. The ivy-covered walls and weathered tiled roofs of this ‘hacienda-style’ hotel are designed to enhance, rather than detract from its memorable setting. The interior is a dramatic blend of white walls, soaring colonnades and Andalusian-style furniture, yet it is the little touches, such as the fountains, plants and potpourri, that convey the impression of a luxurious private home – and one owned by someone with immaculate taste. The spacious rooms seem tailor-made for romantic stays, often dominated by imaginative bathrooms boasting deep baths, separate jacuzzis and sensual lighting. Each is individually appointed, yet the theme is intrinsically rustic with much use of terracotta tiles, local fabrics and mahogany furniture. Guests may remain in the estate and take advantage of the outings or perhaps the health club, with its in-room sauna and massage facilities. Alternatively nearby villages are within easy driving distance, with the charms of Granada and the Costa del Sol both about an hour’s drive. In the evening, the spotlight falls on La Finca, an awarded restaurant which serves international haute cuisine combined with breathtaking views of the surrounding orange-gold countryside. Managed by Jose Sanz Sampedro, La Bobadilla is probably one of the most outstanding hotels in the world. For those who like their weekends away, peaceful breaks from the Costa del Sol may be an experience of a driving holiday around Andalusia – at any time of the year. A member of The Leading Hotels of the World.

Spain. Hotel Arts.

Barcelona.

Having the surprising landmark the Hotel Arts Barcelona, is an ideal choice for either the leisure or business visitor - amid the peaceful, palm-fringed surroundings of the Arts' landscaped gardens it is easy to forget that the capital's commercial and historical centre is no more than a few minutes' walk away. Meticulous detail in design and décor creates a mood of intimacy unusual for a hotel of this size – especially in the spacious guest rooms and suites, and each a luxurious haven of privacy, with handsome marble bathrooms, all with commanding views over the city and sea – as well as 24-hour room service and the benefits of satellite television, video, CD player, and compact office area with twin telephone lines and fax/pc capacity. A special feature are Club floors at the highest levels with rooms and suites for the discerning guest seeking the epitome of luxury and exclusivity, giving use of the private Club lounge, dedicated concierge service, and no less than five complimentary light meals and beverages throughout the day. For the gourmet guest the Arts provides a choice of superlative restaurants and bars opening to terraces overlooking the sea. Pride of place goes to the elegant Newport Room, where chef Antony Bombaci's outstanding cuisine draws inspiration from both Spain and California, accompanied by the finest wines, and with live music at weekends. The more calorie-conscious will appreciate the hotel's complimentary fitness centre and the seafront walking-jogging trail (only 100 metres from beach), while the outdoor heated swimming pool and whirlpool available in season will have universal appeal! The adjacent Marina Village houses a shopping gallery, while the Olympic Marina across the street offers a choice of over 50 restaurants and cafes for seafront dining. Planet Hollywood and other theme restaurants are also within a short stroll. Golfers will be able to enjoy their sport at the El Prat Golf Club, 7 miles away, and windsurfing and sailing can be arranged locally. Its striking styling, ideal location, and the internationally acknowledged Ritz-Carlton dedication to personalised service have gained the Hotel Arts a premier position amongst Barcelona's prestige hotels.

Spain. Hotel Hacienda.
San Miguel.

Surrounded by the unspoilt pine-covered mountains of northern Ibiza, the Hotel Hacienda enjoys a dramatic cliff-edge location that could not be further removed from the island’s lively tourist haunts. You will find neither throbbing nightlife nor crowded beaches at the Hacienda, just welcome peace and quiet and a view that is very hard to take for granted. Ibizan, Mexican and Andalusian influences can all be detected in the décor of the unpretentious public rooms, whilst the outstanding feature of 63 private rooms are their terraces or balconies with breathtaking sea views (only single rooms don’t have them). Jacuzzis, memorably placed next to the sea-view picture windows in a number of rooms, are perfect venues in which to enjoy a post-sunbathing soak, whilst air-conditioning, satellite TV’s and minibars are standard features. Days at the Hacienda are predominantly devoted to sunbathing on the breeze-cooled terraces around the two outdoor pools, or perhaps you can enjoy a massage, a game of tennis, billiards, or a swim in the indoor pool. Bicycle rides in the surrounding countryside, as well as boat trips to nearby islands can be arranged, whilst car hire is readily available for island tours – the nearest beach is under ten minutes drive away. The Hacienda’s membership of Relais&Chateaux is a testimony to its high standards of cuisine – a pleasing mélange of Spanish, Ibizan and international dishes prepared by their three star Michelin chef. The alfresco poolside restaurant offers special menus twice a week, whilst the new gastronomical restaurant specializes in fish and seafood. During the high season, live music is provided twice a week. A caring and very hands-on style of management ensures a smooth-running operation with a definite ‘Hacienda’ touch. Whilst not in the slightest bit glamorous or glitzy, the unpretentious style and unbeatable location of the Hotel Hacienda does attract a fair share of wealthy sophisticates – a cosmopolitan blend of American, English, German and Spanish guests, the latter mainly at the weekends.

Canary Islands. Gran Hotel Bahia Del Duque.
Tenerife.

The Gran Hotel’s classic re-creation of traditional turn-of-the-century Canaries architecture has fashioned a picturesque Portmeirion-like village collection of low-rise buildings – their colour-washed facades of ochre, sienna, salmon, pink and white attractively divided by cool little courtyards and secluded corners. Beyond, the green spaces of the hotel’s beautiful, oasis-like estate, rising gently from the sea, are threaded by paths edged with the exotic sub-tropical vegetation of the Canaries – palms, dragon trees, rubber plants, jacarandas amongst them.

Accommodation is in two wings extending from the central reception area, with interiors appointed in distinctive style, decorated with traditional Spanish tiles, ornamental plasterwork and hand-crafted ceramics, and enhanced by specially commissioned furniture. Most rooms face the sea and feature private terraces – and all enjoy 24-hour room service. And for those in search of greater privacy the Casas Ducales (Manor Houses) offer the cachet of their own exclusive reception area, breakfast room and cocktail salon, as well as butler service, and additional special room amenities.

The spaciousness of the setting can be measured in the number and variety of the hotel’s guest amenities. Its seven restaurants, for example, cater for virtually every palate and mood! There are no less than seven bars, too, including a lobby bar, piano bar, two pool bars, and a beach bar.

Temptations of the sporting kind are also much in evidence, notable amongst them the series of four swimming pools that descend in tiers towards the Beach Club – where you’ll find facilities for windsurfing, sailing, paragliding, waterskiing and underwater and deep-sea fishing. On land are three tennis and two squash courts, as well as a putting-green, a fitness centre, and a jogging and mountain-bike circuit – while a sporting marina and golf course lie within 2 and 10 kilometres respectively. Within the hotel you’ll also find a shopping gallery and hairdresser/beauty salon.

Managed by Melia Hotels, the Gran Hotel Bahia del Duque can justifiably claim a quality of style and service that has few, if any, resort-hotel rivals elsewhere on Tenerife.
